Any statements made by you during the polygraph examination during pre-examination or post-examination interview(s) may be used in any manner, including to generate separate leads or investigations, at a revocation hearing. Failure to answer questions during the polygraph examination may be grounds for revocation, unless you choose not to answer any questions perceived or deemed incriminating, which may then be referred to the Court for resolution.

You must comply with all sex offender laws for the state in which you reside and must register with the local sheriff’s office within the applicable time frame.
